

Account Director (m/f/x)

Are you a seasoned Account Director with a rich background in the agency world? Do you view events, roadshows, and activations as essential components of the communication blend? If managing a significant client with multiple concurrent projects feels like second nature, and you possess a business-driven approach, always looking for ways to enhance client service and grow your account, then read on.

Are you an experienced Account Director and...

- You are proficient in budget management and comfortable discussing it with clients.
- Have multilingual capabilities (Dutch, French, and English are spoken in our office).
- You are team-oriented, understanding that managing a major account is a collaborative effort.

If this sounds like you, let's discuss your potential future with Indiandribble.

When you join Indiandribble, you join into an innovative communication agency rooted in Brussels but with a global perspective. Our mission is to transform client briefs into actionable communication and engagement strategies. We leverage these strategies to create or build Communities, Content, and Culture.

About the job as Account Director at Indiandribble:

40% Strategic account management

50% Project management

10% Team leadership

- Collaborate with our strategic director to oversee communication and event strategies.
- Understand and address client requirements, translating them into actionable proposals.
- Maintain transparent financial projections for clients.
- Craft detailed briefings based on proposals.
- Monitor budgets to ensure targets are achieved.
- Coordinate with various stakeholders, including clients, suppliers, venues, and the internal team.
- Provide clear updates on active projects to clients.
- Lead your project team, offering support when necessary and delegating when appropriate.
- Embody a proactive attitude; being hands-on is in your DNA.

But your job is not just limited to the above. You will also...

- Become part of a team in a growing Brussels communication agency.
- Partake in company drinks, outings, dinners, trips and team buildings.
- Get an attractive salary package including meal vouchers (Sodexo), health insurance and innovative mobility solutions.
- Opportunity to contribute to a charity of your choice during regular work hours.

Interested in this exciting opportunity?

Send your resume to jobs@indiandribble.com and tell us why you're the ideal candidate for the Account Director role at Indiandribble.