

Account Manager (m/f/x)

Are you an account manager and you...

- have two to three years of work experience as an account manager under your belt.
- speak Dutch or French as your mother tongue (or are you mastering at least one of these languages as a pro)? And is your English second or third best?
- think client-oriented and know the needs and expectations of the client like no other.
- handle stress the way Kim Kardashian handles a selfie, Lenny Kravitz plays the guitar or Ronaldo controls a football – like a pro?
- are a true team coach, you can manage, motivate, and follow up creative teams as best as possible.
- have a keen eye for detail and are as organized as Marie Kondo's wardrobe.
- You are often called a good communicator and have the presentation skills to give a memorable Ted talk.

Then we might want to meet up and talk about your future at Indiandribble.

When you join Indiandribble you're plunging into an entrepreneurial communication agency with a Brussels heart and a global view. Here we translate our client's briefings to concrete and applicable communication and connection tactics that we use as tools to create or build Communities, Content & Culture.

Now as an account manager at Indiandribble...

- you are in daily contact with our customers, you are their representative who wants to know everything about their brand and products.
- you are extremely strong in organization, for you, details are just as important as the bigger picture.
- you are able to write production briefings for the creative teams and take care of the follow-up and finalization.
- you create cost-effective budgets and presentations for clients.
- you enjoy working in a team and managing a small team gives you an energy boost.

But your job is not just limited to the above. You will also...

- become part of a team of incredible individuals that form our company.
- partake in company drinks, outings, dinners, trips and team buildings.
- get an attractive salary package including meal vouchers (Sodexo), hospitalization insurance and smart mobility solutions.
- receive some time to give back... (Yes, I went there...). During your normal working hours, you can participate in a charity of your choice (do something you care about).

Interested?

Send your CV to jobs@indiandribble.com and tell us why you are the missing link and why you want to join our team.